Four Committees of the Earth Democracy Issue Committee

- Human Right to Water and Health
- Rights of Nature and Guardianship of Future Generations
- Food Democracy and Local Economy
- Climate Change and Renewable Energy

We highlight the Precautionary Principle and Guardianship of Future Generations, developed by Carolyn Raffesperger, Science and Environmental Health Network, to frame and guide our work.

Communities and nature must be in harmony to thrive and survive.

WILPF's Earth Democracy Communities and Nature Workshop is based on engaging readings, discussion, and creative activities on the topics shown on the flower petals. Moving from education to local action, participants evaluate the opportunities in their community and strategies for creating a municipal or county position of "Guardian" and for adopting the Precautionary Principle to guide local government policy.

This workshop can be tailored to fit the sponsoring group's specific needs. For specific information on the workshop, email edworkshop@wilpfus.org.
