Become a Sponsor for WILPF's UN Advocacy Programs

Your sponsorship will prepare the next generation of global leaders working for peace, justice, and human rights.

Each year, Women's International League for Peace & Freedom (WILPF US) selects a group of motivated and qualified young Americans, with demonstrated commitment to peace, justice, and human rights advocacy, to serve as WILPF US delegates at the Commission on the Status of Women (CSW) at the UN. Our cohort also includes a few seasoned WILPF US activists, offering intergenerational learning.

We're preparing young people whose work in the future may indeed help change the world for the better.

Delegates participate in a full week of learning and training including:

- Attendance at high-level UN meetings, panel discussions and events hosted by member governments and national/international non-governmental organizations.
- Attendance at events hosted by civil society organizations, building networks and international friendship.
- Exchanging ideas and deepening their peer-to-peer learning while also exploring opportunities in international relations and advocacy through the lens of feminist peace.
- Learning about WILPF's feminist peace imperative, our history of peace-making and building bridges internationally, and our demands for women at peace tables, to secure a more stable and sustainable future.
- Connecting to national and international offering careers in diplomatic and feminist peace work.
